Turk is a civil litigator and his practice emphasizes complex civil litigation including healthcare, medical malpractice and business disputes. He also has experience with a wide range of commercial matters, construction defect and elder abuse litigation. He also frequently provides ADR services as a mediator or arbitrator.

Business advice: “Remember that every connection you make, no matter how small, is worthwhile. Everyone is entitled to your respect regardless of their position. Kindness and civility are remembered and pay off.”

Surprising fact: “I have a comic book character — an anti-mutant senator in the X-Men comics — named after me. It is, of course, purely fictional. I, personally, have nothing against mutants.”

Andrew B. Turk is Senior Counsel in Clark Hill’s Litigation and Health Care Practice Groups and has extensive experience with health care litigation as well as with tort, and insurance litigation. His practice currently emphasizes complex civil litigation including health care, medical malpractice, and business disputes, he also has experience with wide range of commercial matters, trade secret and insurance coverage litigation and elder abuse litigation. Contact Andrew at 480.684.1301 or aturk@clarkhill.com.
