

Global Health Care Services

Healthcare is going global. Patients have long traveled abroad to access lower cost, quality healthcare. More recently, patients are traveling abroad to receive healthcare from worldwide Centers of Excellence and to gain access to procedures unavailable in the United States. As quality measures and various outcome metrics become more readily available, Americans will no longer be kept in the dark relative to the quality of healthcare services offered globally.

Our work in the global healthcare marketplace falls into four categories:

1. We build and structure relationships between U.S.-based healthcare providers and foreign-based healthcare providers ranging from academic institutions to smaller group provider practices.
2. We advise self-insured employers looking to leverage global healthcare solutions to reduce their company's healthcare spend while enhancing benefit design for their workforce.
3. We advise healthcare insurance companies and assist them in designing global healthcare solutions.
4. We advise companies of all types, such as medical tourism facilitation companies operating in the global healthcare arena.
